

START YOUR ENGINES! GOTCHA RACING LAUNCHES ON 3DS!

The Racing Game With A Capsule-Collection Twist Is Available Now

Burlingame, CA. – August 27, 2015 - Natsume Inc., a worldwide developer and publisher of family-oriented video games, today launches its newest 3DS title, Gotcha Racing. Combining a top-down racing style with drifting mechanics alongside a capsule machine draw system for new parts, players will dive into an addictive mix of gameplay that will draw in casual drivers, as well as hardcore speed demons, starting today. The game is rated E for Everyone, and is available for download on the 3DS eShop for $5.99 USD.

"Earlier this month, our first Arc System Works title hit the 3DS with the launch of Brave Tank Hero, and now we are excited to bring yet another fun and addictive title with Gotcha Racing," said Hiro Maekawa, president and CEO of Natsume Inc.

Gotcha Racing is a top-down racing game with a twist: Capsule Machines dispense parts you use to make your car! As racers progress and gain access to better Capsule Machines, your car will become the envy of the racing world! Once you're driving the perfect car, race on 12 different tracks, compete in Grand Prix races, and conquer six different racing grades while trying your luck with numerous capsule machines to unlock.

Using both screens on the 3DS means plenty of track visibility, and seeing your personalized car front and center makes for an exciting perspective not typically seen in other racing games. Use StreetPass to race against other players and receive even more parts, or tap into Play Coins for special parts not available anywhere else!
